Rumor Liner Has Been Sunk

Fear Expressed for the Safety of Sicilian

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—It is rumored here that the Allan Liner Sicilian, east bound from Montreal, has been sunk. Allan Line officials said they believed the rumors unfounded, adding that the Sicilian was by this time in mid-Atlantic.

RUMANIANS ROLL BACK FALKENHAYN

Estimate of Slaughter Is Terrible As Armies in Death-Grip Kill in Trenches and Shelters on Great West Front

Berlin Expert Also Claims That Russians Have Lost Equal Number Since June; Engagement on the Lines Renewed

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Oct. 14.—Ninety fresh Anglo-French divisions (about 1,620,000 men) were practically annihilated in the three months and a half of the Somme offensive, the military critic asserted today.

These divisions were withdrawn and disappeared completely from the battle, he wrote. Fifty-five divisions, in consequence of heavy losses, could engage in the combat only twice; fifteen divisions were in action three times and only one remained so intact that it could enter the battle four different times. Four divisions were beaten so badly that after the second engagement they had to be sent to front, where little fighting occurred, but on critical days were recalled and sent to other fronts.

Since the beginning of the Somme offensive, 178 divisions (3,180,000 men), partly new and partly filled up, have been launched against the German positions, the military critic stated. Russian losses from June 1 to October 1, he estimated at about 1,000,000 men, quoting the statement of a Kiev officer in a Swiss paper as authority. Some Siberian regiments were completely annihilated, he asserted, and the fourth Siberian army corps alone lost between 13,000 and 14,000 men from August 31 to September 3.

SACRIFICE IS HEAVY.

The news agency's military critic writes:

"The battle on both allied wings in the Balkans are again becoming more violent. The British are at the outskirts of the city of Seres, already under bombardment, and have cleared the surrounding country of the enemy."

GREECE STILL DELAYS.

On the left wing the Bulgars have been counter-attacking desperately, but have been unable to bend back the Serbian line.

The accident was caused by spreading rails on a curve. The locomotive, tender, baggage, express and dining cars and one sleeper left the track and all save the sleeper were overturned. The fireman and engineer were able to leap clear before the locomotive settled upon its side in the soft earth. One sleeper and the observation car remained on the track.

IN NIGHT ATTIRE.

As soon as the diners could extricate themselves from the tangled mass of tables, chairs, tablecloths and dishes, they crawled from the car and mingled with passengers from the sleepers, many of whom had rushed out into the open in night attire, temporarily unconscious of their appearance. The diners were helped out of the overturned car by the members of the train crew headed by Conductor George Utley and Engineer Robert Watson.

A telephone message was received here and a wrecking train was quickly made up and rushed to the scene. By 10 o'clock the work of rebuilding the track and replacing the derailed cars was well under way.

Train No. 23, southbound from San Francisco for Watsonville, was converted into a relief train as soon as it reached the scene. The passengers were taken aboard, mail and baggage were forwarded and the train started back to San Francisco. Mrs. Altaga, taken to a hospital in San Jose for medical treatment. Hooper, the mail clerk, was alone in his car. It was necessary to remove a mass of wreckage before he could be rescued.

The Lark was due to arrive in San Francisco at 9:45 a. m. and was running on schedule time. Last night its sister train, the Lark south-bound, struck an automobile bus with six passengers near San Jose, slightly injuring several people.

PASSENGER TELLS STORY.

Rufus H. Kimball, well-known San Francisco attorney, with offices in Merchants' Exchange building, was among the passengers aboard the Lark. Kimball gave an account of the accident.

I was seated in the observation car when the train, traveling about thirty-five miles an hour, hit the spread rail. One car did not go off, but we heard the grating of the other cars jumping the rails and the crash of the mail coach as it overturned.

With other passengers I rushed out to see what had occurred and to give what help I could. Many had been thrown to the floor of the derailed cars. In the diner fifteen were eating when the car jumped the tracks. Most of them were burned by coffee.

Many of the passengers were in the bed sleep when the train piled up. Others were dressing. There were no day coaches on the train, which is one of the two fastest Southern Pacific trains between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

COMPANY GETS WORD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Advices of the Southern Pacific Company regarding the accident to the Lark at Aromas, near Watsonville Junction, at 7:30 this morning were to the effect that only one man was injured, a cook, who was severely scalded in the diner while preparing breakfast.

The accident happened at exactly 7:30. The train was in charge of Conductor George Utley. Engineer Robert Watson was endeavoring to make up time when a spreading rail is believed to have caused the engine, tender and mail car to leap the track and tip over. All fell on their sides and the express car following left the track with the diner, but did not turn over.

HUGHES ASKS FOR LASTING PROSPERITY

Candidate Driving at Nebraska Salient Warns the Farmers Against Evils of Democratic Policy When War Is Over

Will Make Six Speeches Today, Ending at Lincoln; Is in Fine Condition, Thanks to Massage Treatment by Prof.

FAIR CITY, Neb., Oct. 14.—Enforcement of American rights should be coupled with opening of opportunities for extension of American trade abroad if this country is to succeed in foreign fields, Republican Nominee Hughes told an early morning gathering here today. He spoke of the "temporary stimulus" of the European war to American business and warned his auditors that such a temporary prosperity was an unhealthy condition.

"We want in the United States to have a basis of prosperity that does not depend on the European war," he declared. "We are now living on a stimulant, but you cannot live on a stimulant for any great length of time. When the war does cease you will find a great deal of labor disappointed in this country. We must remember that it is perfectly idle to ask American merchants, American engineers, American traders, the boys who go forth in the various opportunities that are afforded in competition with branch houses abroad; it is perfectly idle to ask them to go forward in the interest of American enterprise if the American flag does not mean full protection to every American citizen lawfully engaged wherever he is."

NATIONAL DIGNITY.—"We cannot have an extension of our foreign trade unless we have a recognition of the dignity of our own citizenship and are prepared to maintain our own rights. Now, I am a man of peace. Nothing to me is more extraordinary than the claim of this administration that it has kept us out of war. Only inexcusable blundering could have gotten us into war. We did not have peace in Mexico. We had war. It was an ignoble warfare; it was a personal war. It was not based on anything that is sanctioned by international law."

IN PHYSICAL TRIM.—Today the Republican nominee was feeling particularly good after a new course of treatment administered by Physical Director James J. Gibson. It was nothing more nor less than an athletic rubbing down, which Gibson started yesterday to give the nominee after each one of his big speeches.

Hughes finished those oratorical efforts in dripping perspiration. He hustles into his overcoat and hurries to his hotel or on his private car, where he gets a shower, and then climbs into bed while Gibson knows his muscles with liniment and pitchfork. As a result the nominee gets up fifteen minutes later feeling thoroughly revived and refreshed.

Hughes was scheduled for six speeches today, starting at Fair City at 9 o'clock and ending up at Lincoln tonight.

Mischa Elman Is True Prophet Artistry of Maestro Pure Gold Poetry of His Bow Thrills Critic

By RAY C. B. BROWN.

The full import of the word "prophet" is mountainous when one attempts to convey in simple and unmetaphorical language the impressions left in the brain by the playing of Mischa Elman. Prose is such a juggling vehicle for winged thoughts impatient to be soaring above the commonplace. It will do very well to describe the manner of the man, the master of instrument and the methods of execution, but it hobbles before it gets to the transcendent. The rhythm of motion and the extravagance of poetical license are needed for an expression of the delicate grace and the poetry of Elman's art.

An artist is the artery of an afflatus when interpreting the works of others, when he becomes but a speaking voice, a prophet uttering the words of another. With due allowance for the transformations in the message made by the personality through which it is expressed, the success of the artist is in direct proportion to the degree of his adaptability. Masters of the minute of technique and the fining of phrases sink into the background behind the one question as to whether or not the artist is giving us the intuitions of the composer. To this acid test, Elman responds with pure gold. For a layman to venture comment upon the fine points of violin technique is little less than an impertinence. Only a violinist possesses the basis for such comment, and to him I leave it. For me Elman has that perfection of execution which gives the impression of ease and simplicity. Difficulties over which the ordinary violinist patiently labors are to ordinary Elman but a mere laugh. And to Elman's execution is added that marvelous tone-wave, mellifluous, round and clear even as the dying organ-note—the bel canto of violin singing from the strings.

HAS NO VANITY.—One of the delights of listening to a perfect artist is the completeness with which one is plunged oneself in the enjoyment of musical truth. The thoughts of modesty, that are happening before one's eyes, save for an occasional gasp at some particularly stirring tour de force accomplished with apparent unconsciously. There is but one thing that can mar this enjoyment, and that is the feeling that the artist is conscious of his faults to the point of embarrassing them and looking expectant of applause. Of this Elman is guilty; he was banished by his fairy godmother who gave him the gift that made his prodigy at five, and a maestro at twenty-four.

For his opening number Elman gave Ferdinand David's arrangement of the Sonata in D major by Piotro Nardini, the pupil and imitator of Tarquin. Eighteenth century music has for us moderns the charm of the picturesque and the fascination of a period when people took time for the amenities of life. The adagio of the Sonata was a quiet and rather stilted conversation in an Italian formal garden. In those days language mastered men, and the sonority of rounded perlora was an obsession. So it was Nardini spoke—long, winding phrases, amplifying and embroidering the thought, uttered with a courtly slowness, and a sentimental emphasis. The larghetto was the life story of a somewhat sententious abbe. Even in its allegro, into which a certain Tarquinian gayety intruded, the piano was ever the dominant motive.

TONES ARE GOSSAMER.—The bristling technical difficulties of the Ernst Concerto in F sharp minor were more easily conquered by the Masters of Elman than by those of the composer. If tradition can be trusted, it is said that Ernst himself did not always succeed in playing this composition without stumbling. It has little to recommend it musically, as it was prepared by a virtuoso for virtuosity. The well known elegie of the same composer is more than a dozen years old, and the name of the author is unknown.

Elman's arrangement of the Nardini piece—long, winding phrases, amplifying and embroidering the thought, uttered with a courtly slowness, and a sentimental emphasis. The larghetto was the life story of a somewhat sententious abbe. Even in its allegro, into which a certain Tarquinian gayety intruded, the piano was ever the dominant motive.

THE ITALIAN.—The itinerary, in charge of Miss Therese Rousseau, includes—after the greeting by Mayor Dayle at Sixteenth street station, ten-minute speeches from the automobiles at each of the following places: West Berkeley; Hotel Shattuck, Berkeley; the grounds of the Regia home in Piedmont; San Leandro public square; Elmhurst and Alameda.

THE ITALIAN.—The noon hour will be spent in talks to the factory and cannery women along the esplanade, the party dividing into groups to give many speeches in a short time.

From the canneries and factories the party will proceed to the Hotel Oaklawn at 1 p.m. for luncheon. All those who wish to join the party at that time can secure tickets from members of the executive committee from the Hotel Oaklawn, or from the following: Mrs. J. J. Miller and Mrs. R. O. Moody, Berkeley; Mrs. Lucy Barker of Elmhurst; Mrs. Ralph Kinney of Piedmont; Mrs. L. T. Langworthy of San Leandro; Mrs. E. R. Taylor of Alameda; Mrs. Walter Street and Mrs. A. L. Lavenham of Oakland. Men will be welcome and anyone may come to the hotel during the luncheon hour to listen to the speakers.

FACTORIES TO BE POLITICAL FORUM

The Alameda county executive committee of the Women's Hughes party will complete the arrangements for Tuesday's campaign at a special meeting Monday morning at 11 o'clock at the Hotel Oakland. All members of the committee are urged to be present and especially those members on special committees.

T. R. TO BATTLE WILSON BOOMERS IN DISORDERLY SCENES

Eight-Hour Law Branded As a Humbug by Former U. S. President.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Colonel Roosevelt left New York today for his second quick thrust and return to base before he starts his big offensive in the interest of Republican Candidate Charles Evans Hughes next Tuesday. His is to speak tonight at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to gathering of miners. He returns here Sunday and leaves for his big western swing Tuesday. The Colonel goes into the heart of the mining district "loaded for the Adamson eight-hour law bugbear," as he puts it, less than a week after President White of the United Mine Workers declared for President Wilson.

He intends to tell the miners he believes in an eight-hour law, but that he doesn't believe the Adamson law is one, and he will tell his audience at the start that he doesn't speak altogether as a former President of the United States and a stamping speaker for the present candidate for the office, but as a brother member of the miners' union. He took his honorary membership card with him along with another mining memento which shows he is a member of one of the railway brotherhoods in good standing.

The present trial of the Colonel is admitted to attempt a turning of the labor tide, as it was expected to go deeply into detail regarding the labor records of President Wilson and Hughes, in his effort to prove the latter is a more solid friend of union labor and of workers who do not belong to unions.

It is coincidence that Roosevelt's visit to Wilkes-Barre today is his first campaign trip in Pennsylvania since he spoke there for Vance McCormick two years ago when the national Democratic chairman, as the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, had been endorsed by the Progressive party of Pennsylvania.

WILSON WOMEN IN DISORDERLY SCENES

Arrival of Hughes Special at Portland Made Occasion for Near Riot.

PORTELAND, Ore., Oct. 14.—Screaming "Wilson!" a huge crowd of Democratic women greeted women campaigners for Hughes when they left their special train at the Union depot today and started for the Multnomah hotel.

As the first visitors stepped upon the platform a mighty cheer for Hughes went up and a band began pumping out rapid melody. Suddenly the shouts of welcome and the music were interrupted by a gale of shrieks for Wilson.

Scenes of confusion followed. A squad of shouting women pressed through the mob, carrying huge banners. One bore the words in staring black letters:

"Which goose laid the Hughes special golden egg? Was it Mrs. Belmont or Mrs. Singletary Trust Guggenheim?"

In spite of the commotion the Hughes delegation gained the street and pushed a pathway through the crowd.

Led by the Multnomah band, the Hughes campaigners in automobiles rode for two blocks up Sixth street to the Multnomah hotel, where breakfast was served, meeting the opposition of the Republicans all along the way.

The opposition trailed along behind the automobiles and kept up the heckling until one by one they fell behind for lack of breath. During this ordeal the visitors maintained an attitude of composure and did not attempt to answer the taunts.

The Hughes crowd was in an overwhelming majority at the Multnomah hotel and as the automobile parade arrived a big Hughes demonstration started. When it died down and as the delegates were returning to the hotel through a ring of head-clapping men and women, a single shrill voice began whooping for Wilson.

A crowd of men surrounded the woman, who gave the name of Mrs. Meta M. Utteroff.

"Keep your hands off me," she cried.

"Remember, I'm a lady."

Little Girl's Dad Is Birthday Gift

Judges's Young Son Asks Clemency

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 14.—"Let out our dearest papa and God will bless you and keep you healthy and give you a long life. I will be 10 on my birthday, October 19."

Thus read part of an appeal contained in a letter from little Olga Carstenberger to Judge A. C. Backus of the municipal court, who six months ago sentenced the child's father to two years in the house of correction for wife abandonment.

The judge today said he read the little girl's letter to his family and then asked his young son, whose birthday falls on the same date, what he wanted for a present. And he said: "Give the little girl her dad back and you won't have to give me anything."

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Allan L. Benson, Socialist candidate for president, will conclude his campaign in the San Francisco bay cities tomorrow night with an address in Oakland, where Socialist leaders expect a large attendance.

Benson continued to dwell at length upon the draft clause of the Hay-Chamberlain army reorganization bill in his address here last night. He criticized the attitude of both President Wilson and Republican Candidate Hughes in the regard, declaring they have a "gentlemen's agreement" not to mention the subject.

Benson will be the guest of the newspapermen's Club of this city at a reception tonight.

McCloughry Says Mrs. Bebb's Action Is Attempt at Blackmail.

Under what circumstances is a man's failure to keep his troth with a woman worth $50,000 to the one disappointed? The question will probably be threshed out in court as the result of a suit that has been filed in the U.S. District Court of Berkeley against Hull McCloughry, former husband of Anita Baldwin, Mrs. Bebb, divorcee and daughter of the late Commodore Price of the British navy, alleges that McCloughry promised to marry her and failed to consummate his vows at the altar. She demands $50,000 for the humiliation she alleges she has suffered by having the affection she bestowed trifled with and trod upon.

The action, which was heralded several days before it finally was validated by the filing of the complaint in the Superior Court, is brief in form, but to the point.

The promise of marriage is alleged to have been made by McCloughry on August 7, 1915, on which day Mrs. Bebb says he told her that he was "willing and ready to furnish her with a home and all the benefits arising from a marriage with a man of his financial standing."

"No woman ever went into court with a more just cause than mine nor with more convincing evidence," the plaintiff said in a statement. "This is an attempt at blackmail," was the comment of Ben F. Woolner, counsel for McCloughry.

It is now up to the court to decide.

Women Oppose Plan to Parole Prisoner

SAN JOSE, Oct. 14.—Petitions to prevent the parole of Timothy Carr, a white slaver, convicted in this city a year ago, following a weird story of maltreatment told by Helen May, 16 years old, of San Francisco, and being circulated among the various women's clubs here, to be forwarded to Governor Johnson and the board of parole. The petitions state that Carr was a notorious actor of crime and that the utmost energies were necessary to capture him after he had eluded the San Jose police and charges of犯姦 by the San Francisco police department had been made.

Eugenics and Race Uplift Is Theme Of Photo Drama

SCENE FROM "GARDEN OF KNOWLEDGE"

The Garden of Knowledge Preaches Purity of Body

"The Garden of Knowledge," the artistic photodrama that has been playing to capacity houses in San Francisco the past week, will be shown at the Broadway Theater, starting tomorrow, for the entire week. The picture delves into many phases of the nude art, but is hampered in its didactic and artistic manner. The photoplay has taken for its foundation the study of the eugenic problem and presents a movement for the uplift of the human race. It shows perfect women going through the test of a noted professor to try and prove to the world that it is just as important to be pure of body as of mind.

It is said to be a lesson and not merely a story.

Adele Blood Is Visiting Oakland

Adele Blood, former Alameda girl, and noted actress, arrived in Oakland today for a brief visit with her mother, Mrs. C. F. Blood. She is registered at the Hotel Oakland.

Miss Blood was the wife of Rev. Edward Davis, Oakland pastor, who later became an actor. She divorced him about a year ago, the case being a sensational one in the New York courts. Since that time she has been appearing in the "movies" and plans to enter the vaudeville field again. Her first appearance in Oakland after leaving to achieve fame in the East, was with her husband in "The Picture of Dorian Gray" in vaudeville. She later starred in "Everywoman."

RAID LOTTERY HOUSES. Lottery houses on 506 Webster street and 819 Webster street and 923 Franklin street were raided by the police last night and three Chinese arrested for conducting lotteries. RICH WIDOW SUES MEYER FOR DEBT

Nephew of Late Millionaire Faces $10,000 Action in Nevada Courts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—In addition to the domestic difficulties revealed by the suit for separate maintenance brought by his wife, who was once Miss Lillian Lee, Alphonse L. Meyer, nephew of the late millionaire banker, Daniel Meyer, has been struggling with a $10,000 suit brought by Mrs. Lillian Davidson, a wealthy widow, living at Waldo Point, Marin county. News of the financial suit, instituted to recover money loaned, leaked out when Meyer failed to appear last Tuesday in Reno to answer his wife's complaint.

Learning that the records of the second judicial court of Washoe county, Nevada, contained the Davidson suit attorneys for Mrs. Meyer, sought attached significance to this action in connection with Meyer's nonappearance in court. Mrs. Davidson, however, denies that the attorneys have any right to make the assumption and declares that the suit is an old one which has been withdrawn.

Mrs. Davidson says that her action was instituted to collect $10,000 loaned to Meyer in 1915 on a promissory note, after she had been advised by her attorney, Walter Linforth, that an insurance policy assigned to her by Meyer as security was worthless for the purpose. The suit has since been withdrawn, she says, and the incident is a closed one.

Mrs. Meyer is asking for separate maintenance of $750 a month and $500 for counsel fees. Meyer was once before sued by his wife in a similar action in 1913 and dropped out of sight, it is said, reappearing in Reno in 1915. He then testified that he owned stocks, securities and bonds worth approximately $350,000.

FRANK G. MINER DIES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Frank G. Miner, widely known in local automobile circles, died suddenly of heart failure at his home in San Mateo yesterday. GREAT PICTURE IS ENDING ITS RUN

"Trip Through China" to Be Seen for Last Time at the Auditorium Tomorrow.

"A Trip Through China," the wonderful moving picture which is completing a two weeks' engagement in the Municipal Auditorium Theater, will be shown for the last time tomorrow afternoon and evening when the citizens of Oakland will have the last opportunity to see films which were taken from end to end of the Chinese empire under unusual conditions of risk and danger. There are many travel pictures in the movie world today, but there are none that equal this one in importance.

If for nothing else, "A Trip Through China" would be worth seeing for the views of the Forbidden City, that hidden congerie of palaces and gardens that has been jealously guarded from the common people for centuries by the ruling dynasty. For the daring devil to run across once would have meant instant death. But through the permission granted by the late Emperor-President Yuan Shih Kai, Benjamin Brodsky was allowed to enter with his photographers. The eye of the camera caught scenes upon which the eyes of thousands can gaze upon without the necessity for a journey to China, and which they would not be allowed to see after they had arrived in Peking.

The Great Wall of China is another feature of the film, which repays the spectator. This stupendous structure, built during the Christian era, is one of the wonders of the world and may a traveler has gone to China for the sole purpose of gazing upon it. The wall is shown winding over high, rugged hills like a serpent. The most intrepid visitor to China could not without the greatest danger and difficulty get even a partial view of the great stretches of uninhabited plains and barren mountains shown in this picture as clearly as though obtained from an aeroplane.

In the ten reels of this picture every phase of life in China is depicted.

OIL OPERATORS CLAIM VICTORY

Officials Say Bayonne Strike is Broken; No More Violence Reported.

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 14.—Convinced they have broken the strike of several thousand oil workers in which three persons have been killed and scores injured, Bayonne officials today planned to turn the workers back to their tasks through an entirely new departure in the handling of such situations. A monster meeting of strikers and those who refused to take chances of violence by staying on the job was called for this morning by Commissioner of Public Safety Henry Wilson. Wilson planned to address the strikers on a big open plain known as "the flats" to tell them the strike is broken and that he has the promised aid of the police to see that all will be given back their places.

The plan admittedly was an experiment and despite the claim that police authority now prevails following the gun battles that accompanied rioting and looting, every available policeman was on the job armed with rifle or drawn automatic, when the workers started for "the flats" in the heart of the strike zone. A comparatively quiet night gave officials further hope today that the police have thoroughly cowed the rioters by the almost incessant raids they have been making on the pickets. The police have the names of workmen suspected of having arms and ammunition. This will continue tonight and Sunday. By Monday, when the big plants of the Standard Oil of New Jersey open, officials hope to have completely eliminated any chance for such fatal disorders as marked the course of the strike up to yesterday.

Methodist Pastor Accorded Reception

The members of the First Methodist Church, Twenty-first street and Broadway, last night tendered a reception to their leaving pastor, Rev. George W. White who has been pastor of that church for nine years and who has been appointed superintendent of the San Francisco district of the Methodist Church. An address was delivered by James A. Johnson, who has been a member of the church for many years. Johnson closed his address with the gift of a check for $250 as a special gift by the church.

Special music was given by the Calliope band, which was headed by Miss Flora Hubbard of San Francisco. Mr. Andrew, of Oakland, also sang two songs. The affair was in charge of Mrs. J. W. Henderson, 2341 Valdez street, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, who had the church beautifully decorated and who made this probably the largest attended and most striking affair ever held at the new church building.

Dr. White gave a recount of the results of his work and mentioned he had baptized 300 people during his connection with this church and had conducted 400 funerals, married 500 couples and taken 1100 members into the church.

Those of the convention delegates who remained here yesterday were given automobile trips through the orange groves.

GRADUATES WILL HAVE AID TO JOBS

University Alumni Association to Institute Bureau of Information.

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—Beginning with the first of the year, the Alumni Association of the University of California will make an effort to find jobs for graduating students of the institution. An information exchange, for which plans are being made, will be established in Berkeley at this time under the direction of the central council of the association.

At first the bureau will serve only seniors of the particular year. If this first step succeeds, all the alumni body will be asked to assist the bureau.

The bureau will collect information on experience, college education, scholarship and future aims of all graduates in the May, 1917, class. This information will be given to the bureau and the bureau will then dispose of employers throughout the state.

The plan has been broached to several chambers of commerce in the state and has met with ready response. In addition to the chamber of commerce, the bureau offers to employees and will depend upon civic publications further to assist the bureau.

This finding of positions for teachers is the only present effort made by the bureau to assist future employment of the students completing their courses. This branch of University organization will continue with the present appointment secretary, Mr. Alvin J. Conner, chairman of the bureau, expects to reckon with all other branches of business and professional activity without exception.

Modesto Wins Next
Convention of U. P. E. C.

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 14.—President J. C. Avellar of Oakland and the other supreme officers of the U. P. E. C. were installed in office last night, the ceremony bringing to a close the thirtieth annual convention of the order. The public witnessed the installation in Odd Fellows hall. A committee was appointed to elaborate upon the initiatory rite.

Modesto was selected for the next meeting in face of stiff opposition from other cities, orators from which entered into spirited competition for the honor of winning the 1917 convention. A final ballot, taken late in the afternoon, gave Modesto 143 votes, Vallejo had 51 votes, San Luis Obispo, Los Banos, San Jose and Hollister also received a small proportion of the votes.

CHURCH SERVICE, 11 A. M.

SERMON BY CHAS. D.

MISS ELEANOR UHL, in whose honor Mrs. Helen Uhl entertained last evening at Hotel Oakland at one of the smartest dancing parties the debutante and sub-debutante set has enjoyed thus far in the season. Recently Mrs. Uhl and her daughter left their Piedmont home to winter in apartments across the bay, where they have been much entertained.

First of the little group of debutantes to make her formal bow to society, Miss Eleanor Uhl, the pretty daughter of Mrs. Helen Uhl, was presented last evening at an elaborate dancing party at Hotel Oakland that proved one of the happiest affairs of the autumn season. All along the day before Miss Uhl, who is very much of a favorite, had been showered with congratulations and boxes of flowers.

The debut was in the setting of the ivy ballroom, where palms banked the stage in green, concealing the musicians of St. Francis Hotel Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Hickman. At the west end of the long room the punch tables were wreathed in blossoms, and the many little tables in the dining room were similarly served. At 11 o'clock, decorated with similar blooms, harmonizing with the candelabra.

Standing beside her mother to greet the guests of whom there were nearly 200, Miss Uhl was dressed in only a fluffy gown of white silk. The frock showed an elegance to the houffant, the skirt whirling out from beneath the interesting girdle of pink panne velvet into hoopful fullness, very becoming to her figure. Many others, old and young, were decorated with similar blooms, harmonizing with the candelabra.

The guests were received by Mesdames Uhl, John Francis Smith, Donald Pearson, Edward Dodge of Homewood, Robert Byrne, and by Misses Eleanor Uhl, Anna Smith, Katherine Maxwell, Katherine Armstrong, Elsie Bishop and Constance Uhl.

Not more than two months ago Mrs. Uhl and her daughter left their spacious Piedmont home to spend the winter in San Francisco at the Keystone Apartments. Miss Uhl, though not introduced before, had for some time been sharing in many of the festivities of the debutante set on both sides of the bay, and her coming out here brought gay parties of young people over from the other side of the bay.

No fashion review yet given for charity in Oakland has aroused such enthusiasm as that shown to be staged this evening in the ivy ballroom of Hotel Oakland, with quite the most alluring group of amateur maids—also as professional—and the maid debutantes, for the benefit of the Ladies' Relief Society.

The boxes, taken along since, with all the boxes will be filled with parties, the debutantes, and for the popular dance afterward, and there will be any number of other parties in the "pit" as well. Instead of waiting until late in the evening to begin, the hour announced is an early one, so that the debutantes can get the dancing one, and still leave the gates.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Adams are entertaining the largest of the supper parties for the evening, entertaining fourteen guests after dinner, and all will be headed by Mr. and Mrs. Wickham Havens. Mrs. Percy Walker of New York will be the honor guest of a large party, with Miss Florence Brown and Mrs. Lillian Brown.

Miss and Mrs. Mark Requa will have in their box a number of young people, among them Miss Amy Requa, Miss Alice Requa, Miss Amy Long, Kenneth Lawson and Harry Walker.

Another dinner party will be presided over by Mrs. John H. Muon, who will be hostess to thirteen guests afterwards.

Mrs. Isaac Requa's box will be filled with a party of the young friends of Mrs. Requa, including the debutantes, including Miss Sallie Long, Miss Mabelry Henderson, Miss Helen Staats of Los Angeles, Jack Gordon, Ralph McFadyen and George Baker.

Miss and Mrs. Wigginton Creed are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Oliver, Mrs. F. Crosby, Miss Georgia Creed and Edgar Stone.

The members of Miss Florence Brown and Mrs. Percy Walker, Mr. and Mrs. George Hammer, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Greenwood, Mrs. John Francis Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Oliver, Miss Hazel Rudiger, Miss Beatrice Simpson, Miss Elan Schilling, Miss Helen Staats, Mrs. Charles G. Gor of San Francisco, Harry Allen, Leslie Taylor and Ralph Anderson.

Many others will entertain, among them Mr. and Mrs. George Rotherham, Frank Eloff, Dr. and Mrs. John L. Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. Walton Woodford Moore, Mrs. K. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry East Miller, Miss Annie Florence Brown, Mrs. Louis Gherardi, Mrs. Dudley Dexter, Mrs. R. H. Ayer, Mrs. C. J. Dwyer, more, Mrs. Thomas Dugdale and many more.

The announcement that has come from New York of the engagement of Miss Alberta Touchard, whose family lived here for many years, to the late John Nicola of San Jose, is one that is greeted with much interest by the wide circle of friends whom both young people have in California.

Miss Alberta Touchard was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Alexander McCracken of San Francisco and was the inspiration for numerous festivities during her stay. Her fiance was a visitor coming out with his mother, Mrs. Meleg Burke and his sister, Miss Antoinette Burke, to see the Exposition.

The bride-elect is a daughter of Mrs. Albert Touchard of New York, but formerly of Oakland.

Society on this side of the bay is preparing to attend the Cubist-Futurist ball to be given at the St. Francis hotel on Tuesday night for the benefit of the San Francisco Association for the Blind. Dinner and box parties are being arranged and numbers of spectators will be in attendance to join in the dancing which will be reproduced in the Cubist-Futurist pageant and phantasm at 10:30 o'clock, after which dancing will be resumed to last until the small hours among the Oakland people who will be present. USE OF MUSCLES A BIG ESSENTIAL IN WATER SPORT

Piedmont Coach Explains Why Certain Muscles Are Required in Swimming.

(By RICHARD DUNGAN)
Coach of Piedmont Athletic Club.
The actions of a swimmer, like those of an archer or a gunner, require the use of certain muscles more than others. This may be qualified to the assertion that in swimming one uses more muscles than in walking or running. But it nevertheless requires muscular effort in all the regions of the body.

Regardless of what one may have gathered from reading recent treatises upon the use of muscles in swimming, the force exerted by the arms is the main propulsive agent. It is the arms that provide the pull, the real pull, and in sending the swimmer forward. The legs may add materially to the power of the stroke, but their function is essentially one of maintaining equilibrium, and of "backing up" the pull of the arm stroke. Hence, my claim that the muscles that control the movements of the arms are the most important ones in the anatomy of a swimmer.

PULLING ARM BACKWARD.

The muscles of the back are nearly all arranged in pairs, opposing each other. In the arm there are "flexors," muscles which flex the hand, and "extensors," muscles which perform the opposite operation of opening the hand. Similarly, there are two sets of opposing sets of muscles whose functions are to raise the arm and lower it; to pull the arm or extend it; to pull the arm backward or forward.

Practically all of these operations are important in swimming. The most important of all these is the movement of pulling the arm backward, just as in most sports. The swimmer's desire is to sweep the arm backward. Hence the importance of the great muscle that draws backward the arm.

HERE IS THE MAIN AGENT.

This muscle is the large, long muscle along the side of the body that runs from the shoulder over the shoulder bone and down the back. This goes by the terrible name "latissimus dorsi." It is the muscle that it attaches itself to the humerus, or the bone of the upper arm, and at its posterior end fastens to the bones near the hips. This great layer of muscle, with its tendons, forms the whole back half of a tremendous area for contraction and is one of the most powerful muscles in the body. With the socket of the arm at the shoulder, it is able to draw the arm backward. This is the main agent in the propulsion of a swimmer and provides the power that causes the backward sweep of the arm.

RAISE ARM CLEAR OF WATER.

When this stroke is completed it is necessary for the arm to be raised clear of the water and drawn toward the head. To accomplish this the "pecs" or pectoral muscles, the muscle that covers the chest, the "pectoralis major." The deltoid does the lifting of the arm and the pectoral muscle draws it forward. Then the arm is bent so that the pectoral muscles become soft and the big back muscle does the pulling.

NUMEROUS SMALL MUSCLES.
There are many, numerous small muscles that modify the action of the arm while performing this stroke, but these which have been enumerated are the essential ones.

TRY THESE MUSCLES.

A swimmer who is entering water work with serious intent will do well to cultivate the acquaintance of these working muscles of his. A little study of a copy of such a book as "How to Train" will do a lot of good for instance. If he is to have a master in his training he will be able to point out the muscles which should have the most attention.

DO NOT USE SOFT MUSCLES.

To obtain the best service from his muscles the swimmer should see to it that they remain soft. Hard muscles are usually susceptible to cramping and, as in other sports, subject to fatigue.

TRYING TO LOOSEN MUSCLES.

Many swimmers before competition try to loosen the muscles by dangling the arms or swinging the shoulders about. This is a bad idea. The arms will get fatigued and the muscles will be thoroughly loosened. Many times before a race a whole group of swimmers will be swinging about in this crazy manner.

AVOID STRAINING MUSCLES.

It is well to avoid straining the muscles by some strange effort as throwing a baseball, or anything else, the shoulder in training and practicing are generally the best competitors. Langer always left the water in practice very tired. The swimming muscles need not be strained from too much swimming, and in the long run the work in the water develops the best swimming muscles.

HARD WORK ESSENTIAL.

One thing a swimmer need not fear is to get tired while training. The men who are the best swimmers in the world in training and practicing are generally the best competitors. Langer always left the water in practice very tired. The swimming muscles need not be strained from too much swimming, and in the long run the work in the water develops the best swimming muscles.

SOTHORON CONTINUES WINNING STREAK

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 14.—Allen Sotheron added another to his winning streak when he held Salt Lake to four hits and no earned runs. The score was 4 to 2. Sotheron deserved a shutout, but errors by Klawitter gave the fees their runs. Klawitter also helped save baseball. Score:

All-Star Team From Point of Field Work Would Include Six Locals

With the Coast League season of 1916 in the home stretch, a selection of all-star fielding team (the selections being based solely on individual fielding records) would look something like this: Pitchers, Kelly (Portland), Prough (Oakland), Hogg (Los Angeles), Martin (Oakland); catchers, Bassler (Los Angeles) and Sepulveda (San Francisco); first base, Barry (Oakland); second base, Rodgers (Portland) or Kenworthy of Oakland; third base, Galloway (Los Angeles); shortstop, McGarigan (Vernon); left field, Middleton (Oakland); center fielder, Lane (Oakland); right fielder, Shinn (Middleton); and fullback, Grey (Oakland).

Practically all of these operations are important in swimming. The most important of all these is the movement of pulling the arm backward just as in most sports. The swimmer's desire is to sweep the arm backward. Hence the importance of the great muscle that draws backward the arm.

PUBLIC DEMANDS A HOSPITAL.

In the matter of purchasing a site for and starting the construction of a county hospital, the county supervisors should set their course straight toward their duty and obligation to the general public and follow it to the end. If local issues and political debts of the individual members interfere, let them put on blenders and rely upon the ultimate approval of the taxpayers.

All this present controversy about sites, referendums, wastage of time over petitions from every Tom, Dick and Harry, and a bond issue is unnecessary and is calculated only to confuse the situation.

The board of supervisors should follow the advice of its public welfare commission. The supervisors will find this an absolutely safe course. Any other course will be an exhibition of doubtful faithfulness to their duty and open disregard of the general welfare.

This public welfare commission was created by the supervisors to settle the vexed question of sites definitely in an efficient and scientific manner. The members of the welfare commission went to their work earnestly. They spent much of their valuable time and personal funds in the public service. They were men and women of ability, and if any doubt as to their competency prevailed it was dispelled when the report on the sites question was submitted. This report showed that the question had been approached in a practical and scientific manner. Over forty suggested sites were considered, five preferred sites were named as being closest to the center of population and most convenient to all the citizens of the county. The commission expressed a preference for one special site, but left the supervisors several alternative selections. This advisory report was complete in every detail and the taxpayers and the rest of the public were satisfied with it.

It was submitted over five months ago. The supervisors filed it away without taking any action. Yesterday the supervisors discussed bond issues for the purchase of a site. The welfare commission is opposed to a bond issue. It recommended that a special tax be levied for the purpose. A bond issue has failed twice already.

A new county hospital is an absolute public necessity. Present facilities at the county infirmary are a public crime, a shame and a disgrace to any progressive community. They are an offense to our civic pride and civic decency.

The shame will not be wiped out until a new hospital is provided. It is up to the board of supervisors. They have all the data necessary to make a decision on a site and further delay is culpable neglect of duty.

Let the supervisors follow the advice of the public welfare commission. Let one of the sites recommended by the commission be purchased.

If they do this the public will support their action. There will be no referendum. No other foolish and selfish efforts will succeed. The people of the county need a hospital and they want it provided.

REVERSING THE ORDER.

Two civil suits of peculiar public interest have been filed in the courts of Illinois. On June 3 last a passenger train of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad was approaching a crossing near Danville, at its usual speed, it is alleged. The usual warning whistles were sounded at the usual time. A man who was driving an automobile toward the crossing at the time paid no attention to the warnings, his car was struck and he was killed. His automobile derailed and wrecked the locomotive and baggage car and caused injuries to the engineer from which he later died. The engineer's widow has filed suit against the estate of the dead automobile driver for $5000 and the railway company has filed suit against the estate for $10,000 to cover the material damage to its train and track.

This is a distinctly different procedure from that which usually follows a railroad accident, but it is not unreasonable to expect that the courts will decide that it is based on as sound grounds as the traditional claims for damages against the railroads. If the suits prove successful will they prove a deterrent to carelessness by automobile drivers?

Motorists appear to be possessed of an incurable disregard for personal safety. In connection with the agitation for the elimination of grade crossings the railroads of California conducted observations at thirty-four crossings. These disclosed that out of 17,000 drivers of motor vehicles noted, 69.5 per cent looked neither way before crossing the railway tracks, 27 looked in one direction only, and but 27.8 looked in both directions. Over 3300 motorists ran over the crossings at a reckless rate of speed.

Tired of having their feelings mutilated by the daily harrowing accounts of automobile tragedies, and observing that the vast majority of these accidents would have been avoided by the exercise of moderate caution and common sense on the part of drivers of machines, the thoughtful people of Oakland have recently conducted a "safety first" campaign. They will feel it necessary to repeat the treatment from time to time. They will also have to face the problem of abolishing grade crossings. All our efforts toward the preservation of human life from foolish and causeless waste would be made much lighter if the reckless automobile driver could be induced to be less reckless. Perhaps such action as started in Illinois will help toward this end.

FAITHFUL PERFORMANCE OF DUTY.

Our local contemporary displays a peculiarly oblique view of public morals and official duties by its exceedingly harsh criticism of the district attorney for his connection with the grand jury action and the subsequent trial of a member of the county school board on charges of official misconduct. In its eyes the district attorney has committed a grave offense in permitting an investigation of allegations of misconduct against county officials.

In placing the information in his possession at the disposal of the grand jury and in the trial of the charges, Mr. Hynes has shown the accused educators every consideration possible under the circumstances. He has stuck strictly to the path of official duty. He has exercised every caution to avoid bringing unnecessary humiliation to the defendants. It may be that he was over particular in this regard because of the spurious charges of " vindictiveness" and "persecution" voiced by newspapers and associations trying to influence popular opinion in favor of the defendants. Nothing was omitted by him to conserve the dignity of the office occupied by the accused members.

In considering the one case heard the trial jury was not obliged to mull over circumstantial complexities and conflicting opinions of alienists. They had to deal only with simple questions of law and facts.

A majority of the jury—seven—voted that the county superintendent of schools was guilty as charged. Some of the jurors opposed to the verdict of guilty stated in court that they would have voted differently had they believed such action would have served to correct the conditions and habits prevailing in the school board. In going so far afiel of the pertinent facts adduced at the trial, these dissenting jurors may have been guided by that new doctrine of sociology that "sin is sickness and correction is a process of healing," nevertheless the outcome of this first trial cannot fail to convince the public that Mr. Hynes was fully justified in bringing the methods followed by the county school board to the attention of the judicial authorities. The fact that the practices of the board had been indulged in for a long time is no reason for their discontinuance. It is the best reason for their discontinuance. Some members of the board may have acted thoughtlessly, but illegal methods must be halted wherever it is possible.

If the conduct of officials whose duty it is to participate in the prosecution of violators of the laws is consistently marked with as handsome a measure of dignified consideration for the defendants as Mr. Hynes has shown, and is showing the accused members of the county school board, the public will never have cause for complaint. Even a non-English speaking immigrant who transgresses the law through sheer ignorance will get a square deal.

Launching of the freighter Capo from the Moore and Scott shipbuilding yard today is an event of no mean significance. It is the biggest vessel ever built in an Oakland plant. The hull is 390 feet long and the ship will have a cargo capacity of 7100 tons weight. This is above the average size of freight steamers at present, although the average size is steadily rising under the influence of new construction. The Capo is being built for a Norwegian firm of ship operators and is notification to the world that Oakland has the facilities for ship-construction of any merchant class.

Rev. Charles F. Aked, formerly of San Francisco, spoke in Chicago the other day on "The Occasional Duty of Playing the Fool." Probably it is. One cannot say with absolute confidence. But by the ordinary meanings of English terms, duty is never foolish. However, history is replete with examples of a foolish conception of duty and doubtless Dr. Aked had some of these in mind. More than once an effort popularly regarded as foolish has been transformed into soundest wisdom by that fickle alchemist, success. But the Ford peace argonauts were unlucky.

NOTES and COMMENT

The predicted slump in baseball has not been verified by any manifestation in the late championship games.

The latest agreeable news is that one of the ships that was reported to have been torpedoed was not torpedoed.

Combinations in restraint of trade are getting their deserts all along the line. A window-washers' trust at San Jose has just been busted.

We trust it is not too severe to say that getting up a woman's endurance talking contest, as they did at Woodland, was an act of supererogation.

The romance evaporates from the story of the Oregon man who preferred death to waiting a year for a bride when it is disclosed that he came from Chicago.

The failure of the attempt at Paintsville is an undoubted augury that Charles Evans Hughes, nor the cause which he represents, is to be thrown off the track.

The Marysville Appeal, on the subject of eggs, has this to say: "Eggs, they say, are going to be a dollar a dozen this winter. And you'd hardly call egg-laying a war industry, either."

It says in a war despatch that Brod has been retaken and that the bridge across the Balduka has been destroyed. If war news was served up with footnotes it would be easier reading.

Now that the Sox have vanquished the Dodgers we can turn again to a game that is going on in the Balkans and on the western front. And what was that about the U-53 sinking six ships?

Charge this to the Redding Searchlight: "Selfishness," says a University of California saying, "is the main cause for our low birth rate. And selfishness is the nicest word he could have used."

The future seems to have no terrors for the Richmond Record-Herald man: "A lot of us are too doggedly busy or what we have to do now to worry about what we'll have to do after the war."

The turnout at Stockton to welcome Benjamin Holt is justified, when his achievement in inventing the caterpillar tractor is remembered, together with the caterpillar's most recent performance in war.

Inside statistics from the Richmond Record-Herald: "Of the people who buy goods on credit 40 per cent never pay in full, 7 per cent never pay at all, and we don't know how many wish they could get out of paying."

The Dodgers didn't prevail in the recent contest, but emerge with valuation of two millions—according to a despatch which tells of a man who is anxious to buy. It is thus shown that they performed not entirely in vain.

Bright thought by the Redding Courier-Free Lance: "Secretary Baker is reported as believing that Villa is dead. It was Banquo's ghost that would not down in Shakespeare's day, and it is Pancho's ghost that will not down now."

The declaration of Vice-President Marshall that the Adamson wage law will remain on the statute books just as long as Democracy remains in power fails to reassure those who would like to see it taken on a less evanescent character.

Prox Hibben of Princeton is on hand with a declaration that the term "highbow" is "generally employed as a weapon of emasculated minds." Which we will try and remember when tempted. There must be another that expresses the idea.

The editor of the Redding Searchlight says this, though there seems to be no warrant for it: "It is shocking to contemplate, but there must have been a few people in the broad land who did not give a darn whether the world series came off or not."

The girl who accused her fiance of unfaithfulness, threatened him with prosecution, tried to take poison, relented, forgave, made up and is now to wed, seems to have exercised to the full the proverbial prerogative of woman—that of changing her mind.

Thrilling disclosure by the Petaluma Argus: "A local business man was under way on Tuesday, but those interested would not give out any details as the deal was not fully closed, but probably will be by Wednesday, unless there is some hitch to the transfer."

WATCHFULLY WAITING

FACTS AND FIGURES

The Alarming Growth of Government Expenditures and the Craze for Bond Issues

By JOHN S. CHAMBERS, State Controller.

Before attempting to discuss the causes of the heavy increase in expenditures, or to suggest remedies, perhaps it would be well to lay the foundation by giving facts and figures, not only as to California and her counties and cities, but also, by way of comparison, percentages as to the average of the other states and their subdivisions, and the nation.

The total receipts of the State and its cities and counties for 1915, from all sources, was $167,012,148 and the expenditures for all purposes $176,422,681.

As the controller's office did not begin to keep a record of the financial transaction of the State's subdivisions until five years ago, I can only give the percentages of increase as to receipts and expenditures for the cities and counties for that period. One or two of my predecessors tried to gather data of this kind, but having no law, as we now have, to back them, failed.

STATE.

The state's receipts from all sources in 1915 were $29,830,182, an increase of 66.7 per cent in five years. The average of all the states for the ten-year period running from 1903 to 1913 was 94.3 per cent, California's increase in that decade having been 91 per cent, and the Federal Government's 45 per cent.

The state's 1915 expenditures for all purposes totalled $36,229,693, an increase of 103 per cent for the five years in question, as against an average of 105.9 per cent for all the states from 1903 to 1913, with an increase in that decade of 115 per cent for California and 54.5 per cent for the Washington government.

California's percentages of increase for receipts and expenditures on the five-year basis is under that of the average of all the states on the ten years' showing, but for the decade quoted her expenditures are slightly over the average of the other States.

CITY.

The city receipts for 1915, including San Francisco, were $68,724,578, an increase of 46.9 per cent in five years, as against a 99-per-cent increase for all the cities in the country, from 1903 to 1913.

Expenditures by California cities, including San Francisco, for 1915 totalled $69,922,532, an increase in five years of 59.5 per cent, compared with 101 per cent, average, for all the cities in the country.

And the counties, in 1915, expended $69,970,486, or 78.2 per cent more than five years before, as against 95.2 per cent, average, for all the counties of the various states of the Union in the ten years from 1903 to 1913.

CALIFORNIA'S AVERAGE.

Summed up, taking California, including San Francisco, collected in 1915 the sum of $68,457,388, an increase of 66.5 per cent in five years, as against 85.8 per cent, average, ten-year advance, for all the counties of the country.

And the counties, in 1915, expended $69,970,486, or 78.2 per cent more than five years before, as against 95.2 per cent, average, for all the counties of the various states of the Union in the ten years from 1903 to 1913.

SIERRA BASE FAVORED FOR BAY SUPPLY

Hetch-Hetchy Water Source Is Most Ample for San Francisco Region, According to a Member of Govt. Inquisitors

H. H. Wadsworth Addresses Citizens' Utilities Committee. Describing Benefits to Be Gained for Cities From Plan

Hetch Hetchy, in the opinion of the board of government engineers who a number of years ago investigated all possible water sources for San Francisco and the bay cities, is the best and most practical of all, according to H. H. Wadsworth, a lay member of the board, who spoke to members of the citizens' public utilities committee in the City hall last night.

"Hetch Hetchy," he said, "can be developed so that it will furnish San Francisco and the other bay cities with 400,000,000 gallons of water daily and yet give ample supply to meet the needs of the irrigationists of the San Joaquin Valley. The Raker bill, which gives the Hetch Hetchy to San Francisco, provides protection to the irrigationists and insures that they will at all times be given all the water needed."

Wadsworth took no issue in the matter, merely reporting the work and findings of the army board as regarding its investigation of water supply sources. At the end of his talk he answered a score of questions propounded by engineers in the audience.

WATER PREPAREDNESS.

As other speakers have done before the committee, Wadsworth warned the east bay cities that they should even now be preparing to bring more water here.

"Oakland, Berkeley and the other east bay cities, he said, "should embark on some scheme to add to its supply of water. The Spring Valley and the Peoples companies have been developed to almost their total capacities, and the east bay cities will be facing a grave problem in a few years if something is not soon done to increase the existing supply."

Wadsworth took up in details the findings of the army board on all sites where presented to it by the engineers of San Francisco at the time the Hetch Hetchy fight.

HETCH HETCHY FINDINGS.

We found that all things considered the Hetch Hetchy site was the best possible for San Francisco and the other bay cities, he said. "It will prove the most economical; it will furnish the purest water; it will furnish water for many, many years, leading to ample supply for the users of the irrigationists, whose rights are protected in the Raker bill."

Wadsworth then sketched the board's findings in the investigation of all other possible sources. It was a very technical report, dealing mostly with the volume of water to be developed, the means of doing so, and the ultimate possibility of each source which descended to the greatest extent. He denied statements of a number of previous speakers who were opposed to Hetch Hetchy that the Sacramento river had been overlooked as a possible source for San Francisco.

"The Sacramento river source was thoroughly investigated," he said. "The reports of the engineers showed that the water which would have been furnished would have been impure and would have required filtration."

OTHER RIVER SOURCES.

Wadsworth explained that the Feather, Yuba and Mokelumne sources had all been considered fairly and various objections round. For instance, it was found that the rights of corporations on the Yuba would have interfered with any claims of San Francisco; the Feather river would provide an abundant supply, but as in the case of the Mokelumne, it would have been difficult and expensive to bring it to San Francisco. Lake Tahoe had also been considered, he said, but this is a disputed source.

"The Tuolumne river," he said, "was proven to provide the most extensive storage possibilities of any Sierra watershed. There is an ample supply of water. I have been told by water experts that the Modesto and Turlock irrigationists have been wasting water in the past. Experiments at the University farm at Davis have shown this. The cry of the irrigationists that their interests are threatened has been proven to be unfounded on truth."

The meeting was one of a series called by B. A. Pendleton, Charles C. Boynton and other members of the public utilities district committee.

Society Prepares for Third Show of Fashion for Charity

Schoolboy Held for Threatening Teacher

Spectacular stage settings went up today in the ivy-covered ballroom of Hotel Oakland and Oriental boudoir scenery was stowed away during the last rehearsal held this afternoon in readiness for the elaborate Fashion Show in which east bay society will participate—both as mantikins and spectators—this evening.

This will be the third revue of the modes given for the benefit of the Ladies' Relief Society through the efforts of a group of prominent women. It is the most carefully planned of the trio. Weeks in advance every box and loge, as well as most of the single reservations, were taken, and dozens of large supper parties have been arranged to follow the performance preceding the dance. The funds raised will go toward the maintenance of the home conducted by the society for aged women and for little ones.

FINEST GOWNS SHOWN.
The revue is to be arranged in a manner similar to that recently given in San Francisco, opening with a boudoir scene posed by professionals in robes artistic, ranging from a smoking creation direct from Paris, despite the war, to diaphanous chiffon affairs to be worn in seclusion.

The scenic effects in this, as well as the remainder of the acts, were originally sketched by J. Lounis Cravens, a New York decorator.

Winter sports costumes will be posed before outdoor scenery, also by professionals, while the amateurs will display the afternoon and evening gowns. One of the special scenes will be a bridal party, with Mrs. Harold Havens as the bride, and Mrs. William Cavalier, Miss Winifred Braden, Miss Alice Claire Smith, Miss Katherine Maxwell, Miss Juanita Ghirardelli and Mrs. Carlton Gardiner as bridesmaids.

BALLOON PREPARED.

As last year, the ballroom has been divided off with box running along the side walls and loges bordering either side of the carpeted aisle down the center from the stage. The seat sections fill the remaining space, and, for the convenience of the audience, a chart of the boxes has been placed in the Hotel Oakland lounge.

The "models" chosen from the younger members of Oakland society include Mrs. Alla Henshaw, Cleo King, Miss Alice Palmer, Miss Helen Reed, Miss Winifred Braden, Miss Juanita Ghirardelli, Miss Dorothy Taylor, Miss Marian Kergan, Miss Alice Claire Smith, Miss Clarisse Lohse, Mrs. William Cavalier, Mrs. Harold Havens, Mrs. Carlton Gardiner and others.

Miss Matilda Brown, president of the Ladies' Relief Society, together with Mrs. Wickham Havens and Mrs. Frank Proctor, have been in charge of the production in general, assisted

AMENDMENT SUBJECT OF KEEN DEBATE

Proposed Franchise Measure Forms Topic of Discussion at Meeting of Civic Association; Speakers Are Heard

Charter Change Explained at Length; If Carried in November Legislature Must Ratify Before It Becomes Effective

The Alameda County Civic Association, E. L. Vanner Nallen in the chair, debated last night's meeting to a debate on the proposed amendment of the charter of the city of Oakland.

As a members of the citizens' committee that had investigated the traction situation and had framed the proposed change in the charter, Dr. Carl Walliser explained the proposition, calling it an enabling act, that empowered the city council, jointly with an advisory board of seven disinterested citizens, to negotiate a resettlement franchise with public utility organizations, of which at the present time the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways is particularly considered. The speaker went on:

If the electors on November 7 vote in the affirmative on this amendment, the last proposition of the ballot—the amendment must then be ratified by the state legislature, and if so ratified, then the city council, together with the advisory board, must, upon application of a public utility corporation like the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal, proceed to negotiate a resettlement franchise on the indeterminate plan, meaning the granting of a right or privilege for an indefinite time. Such franchise, before becoming effective, will be submitted to the electors at the next municipal election. The franchise must contain provisions for a joint control of city and railway corporation; must also provide for the acquisition of the public utility by the municipalities, and must assure the city or cities a revenue of at least 55 per cent of the corporation's net earnings. These requirements certainly safeguard the interests of the people.

N. J. Herby opposed the amendment, stating that its intention was to pull the traction company into the hole into which it had gotten by gross financial juggling. He doubted the promised earnings and spoke in no flattering terms of the framers of the proposed amendment, the men who, without remuneration, had devoted themselves to find ways and means to enable the east bay cities to get better transportation. Herby blamed the Traction Company, charging it with watering its stock and speculating in real estate. His remedy is a receiver-ship.

In refutation, Dr. Walliser corrected some of the statements made by Herby. He said that the citizens' committee did not probe into the Traction Company's alleged shortcomings that had led to its present financial condition; that the committee had sought for a remedy and had offered as such the proposed amendment to the franchise section of the city charter. In answer to the opponent's adverse criticism of expected revenue, Dr. Walliser cited as an example of increased revenue the savings that could be made if the temporary repair work of trackage along some of our most important traffic arteries could be eliminated by reconstruction of the roadbed so as to carry the heavy cars without breaking up the highway within less than a

Potato Bread Is Urged on America
Tubers Would Reduce Cost, Say Experts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—More general use of potatoes in making bread is recommended by the baking specialists of the Department of Agriculture. Bread containing boiled and mashed potatoes was found during experiments just concluded to be just as nutritious as wheat bread and to have the quality of remaining fresh longer. The department believes that in localities where there is a surplus of potatoes, or where they are cheap, much economy can be practiced at this time by reason of the high price of wheat flour, and that even in localities where the relative market prices of potatoes and flour are such that there is no economy in substituting potato for flour, the individual flavor and keeping quality of potato bread should make it desirable as a variant in the family diet.

Potato bread is known in Europe as made with potato flour, which is not available in the United States. In their experiments the government experts baked excellent bread with three pounds of potato and two and a half pounds of flour. Three recipes have been formulated.

FOR EUROPEAN TRADE.

The "Capito" was launched yesterday, and named after Louis Stolt-Nielsen, the wife of the owners. As she is unable to come to America to launch the vessel, it was decided to name one of the larger boats to be built in Oakland with her instead.

The "Capito" will be taken at once to the Atlantic for trade with Europe, according to its owners. One of the boats now being built in Portland is a duplicate of this vessel, the other two being larger.

The boats to follow in Oakland will be of the larger type, with a 5000-ton capacity.

The Oakland shipyards established a record time in launching the big vessel, which cost $100,000.

During the contract time, the Moors and Scott workers and engineers worked day and night to finish the vessel and set a record, which has attracted considerable attention among European shippers.

Former Golf Champion Will Become Benedict

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The marriage of Miss Dorris Tiffany and Jerome Dustin Travers of Upper Montclair, former amateur golf champion, will take place at the First Presbyterian Church here this evening at 6 o'clock.

Those Pretty White Doors

The pride of any housewife is centered in her kitchen—she likes it to look immaculately spic and span—and to be easy to keep so

The white enamel used in gas ranges—the pretty white door panels, splashes and drip pans—makes the whole kitchen attractive—it is a pleasure to keep it clean

It should always be a pleasure—the enamel must stay smooth and beautiful

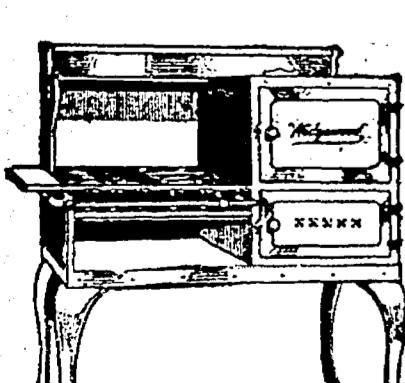

The material upon which the enamel is put must be smooth and free from imperfections

The purest, smoothest sheet-iron is ARMCO—the material of which WEDGEWOOD GAS-RANGES are constructed

Every process of its making is so thorough and so carefully inspected each sheet remains in the furnace five times as long as ordinary iron which makes it even, smooth and solid—there are no little roughnesses or bubble-holes where the gases of cooking can penetrate and eat into the enamel

The enameling on WEDGEWOOD GAS-RANGES is perfectly even and uniform—it will give the same service as the rest of the range and be always beautiful

Nearly all prominent dealers carry WEDGEWOOD GAS RANGES—we shall be glad to tell you the name of the dealer nearest to your home.

Delmas, arrested with Sigma Gerstedt, a Bellingham, Wash., girl, and alleged by the police to be an escaped Texas convict, purchased two tickets for Los Angeles giving the name of Harry Thaw and wife. It was learned today. Wednesday Delmas called at the office of the McCormick Steamship Company and purchased from General Passenger Agent Sol Davis two tickets for Los Angeles on the steamer Multnomah, to one of which he signed the name of Harry Thaw and to the other Mrs. Harry Thaw.

This assumption of the name of the New York celebrity who was defended for the killing of Stanford White by Delphin M. Delmas as chief counsel, is significant, the police say.

Young Delmas, now under arrest, has hinted at a mysterious relationship with this noted attorney. At first he said he was a nephew. This was denied by Delmas.

Reference Library Closed by Board

By unanimous vote, the library trustees last night decided to close the municipal reference library room on the first floor of the city hall. It will be removed to the main library building at Fourteenth and Grove streets, and its two employees, Mrs. E. H. Overstreet and Miss Mabel Mackinnon, sent to work in the new modern residence of George W. McNear at Monte Rio.

The Pacific Gas & Electric Company is shipping an order of fittings to Egypt this week and a lot of cargo pumps for the U. S. government at Alameda Island.

The Ezelean Soap Company recently received and found plenty of patronage for their product. They now have salesmen on the road calling on dealers who are placing large orders.

Thirty thousand dollars will be expended what to do with the municipal art gallery, however. The members are rather puzzled in this matter and appointed Samuel Hubbard and Librarian Charles Greene as a committee to talk the matter over with the members of the Alameda County Art Association. Definite action will be taken at the next meeting.

Mrs. D. V. De Veer was made curator of the public museum last night. Her salary was fixed at $100 a month. John Rowley was given a position as her adviser at a salary of $50 a month.

D. W. L. Fortune and John Mole were appointed members of a committee to call upon the Board of Education and discuss the matter of having the school children take a greater interest in the public museum and its exhibits.

Freight Rate Data Subject of Study

Various important matters were considered today at an extended meeting of the Traffic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, when the details of the defense being planned by Oakland against a raise in freight rates to the coast on raw factory materials and other matters of general interest were up.

Following the issuance of letters, urging shippers and business men to sound figures of their losses through freight increases to the chamber, a large amount of data has been compiled, and this was in part gone over at today's session. The committee is conferring with attorneys as to the best way of waging the fight, in which San Francisco, Oakland and various California cities will stand together.

Neighbors Cannot Stop Faithful Fido's Bark

All dogs residing at the Animal Home, Twenty-third avenue and the third canal, may go on barking, despite protests of neighbors whom they are accustomed to trouble at night. Friends of the canine friends are in high places, and even the city council views their vocal efforts with interest.

The council refused the petition of residents in the districts adjacent to the home asking for removal of the structure to another location.

MANUFACTURING NEWS

REPORT OF WEEK'S ACTIVITIES.

Industrial Enterprises of Oakland and Alameda County Continue Vigorous Growth—Demand for Products Show No Decrease.

This department of The TRIBUNE has completed a compilation of figures covering wages paid in one hundred and sixty factories giving the sum of $18,214,232. This is based on a twelve months' period and does not include some one thousand smaller factories employing a lesser number of mechanics.

These figures bring out strongly the need for a greater loyalty to the factories operating in the bay cities. Money paid to employees remains here to go into other channels, for homes, food, equipment, furniture, clothing, amusement, and largely to the retail merchants. You, as a citizen, share in the distribution of this splendid sum and your duty to yourself and the community should be one of co-operation, demanding Oakland merchandise first.

And you, Mr. Manufacturer, must wake up and do your part to acquaint the public with your products. Advertise their merits. If your goods are right meet the public half way and tell them what you make.

The Standard Peaco Company has completed the safeguarding with wire guards of all machines of the California Cap Company at their factory at Stege.

Announcement is made of the early establishment of a new cereal factory. The Elmhurst rug works have added another room and are showing an unusual increase in business, largely coming from the smaller towns about the country.

F. E. Heath, the creamery expert, has gone East to inspect new plants in operation in Michigan. His trip will cover many states and his return will bring many changes adding efficiency.

The Oakley Lumber Company of Oakley has sold the lumber company of Johnson Lumber Company of Oakland. The latter concern operates many yards throughout central California along progressive lines.

Antone Campenos of the Fernwood ranch dairy of 452 Clifton avenue, has recently improved his farm. His improvements, which bring him a larger income, meet the requirements of the new dairy law.

Pacific Shade Cloth Company reports an increase of 6 per cent on all shades cloth material, which went into effect on the 15th of the month, due to the rise in the cotton market.

Watres Brothers, Oakland manufacturers of flavoring extracts, spices and oils, shared in the awards coming to Alameda exhibitors at the Panama C. I. Exposition at San Diego. Their products were awarded grand prizes.

California Cracker has always done business in California and Nevada, but have recently opened up a branch in the northwest and have shipped an order of 750 dozen of their goods to one firm in Seattle, indicating that Oakland has three cracker factories.

J. A. Sabate, proprietor of the South Berkeley Creamery at 879 Fifty-eighth street, has just expanded $15,000 in plant improvements, which brings the output to 100,000 pounds daily. The new equipment includes a new ice-making machine.

The Standard Photo Engraving Company of 263 Twelfth street has changed ownership and will now be known as the Johnson Photo Engraving Company.

Munro Store Service Company is remodeling and improving their plant, which includes a new warehouse in the Stockton dry goods store and the Treadway Brothers stationery stores of Stockton.

The Strader Manufacturing Company is changing the remaining ninety-eight odd type lights in Berkeley to new type series tungsten of a 200 candle power.

The Pacific Gas & Electric Company has shipped testing apparatus to Mexico and Canada during the week and has other orders waiting attention from Brazil.

The Stauffer Oil interests of West Berkeley are conducting two oil wells of importance, one in each of two six-room houses at a cost of $8000 and a two-story six-room factory for $20,000.

The Hercules Powder Company of Photo is in full operation with a day and night force at making explosives. The major portion of their output is for foreign shipment, largely to Europe.

The Lawrence Warehouse Company is conducting fifty carloads of canned goods in Oakland to be shipped to various distributing centers throughout the United States on the order of one of the largest grocery concerns in Chicago.

The Tribune Annual for 1917 will be the representative annual of the progress that has ever been published in Alameda county. A special and complete section devoted to the industrial activities of the county will be fully featured in the forthcoming edition.

The Security warehouse company received during the week three carloads of art glassware from Philadelphia and two carloads of mixed merchandise from other Eastern factories. These shipments are made to various parts of the country to take advantage of market conditions and are warehoused until ordered delivered.

Frank Sharp, manufacturer of a patent tapping machine, used by water and gas corporations, is filling orders from all over the country. He recently had a high compliment paid his invention by an order from the government. His factory at 707 Thirty-third street is working to full capacity and is considerably behind in orders.

The Alameda Sugar Company contracted for sugar beets to be planted on their farm in Alameda. The present crop is 1,000 acres and the present value of the land will be $7, which is double the present rate and would be a serious handicap to all factory and industrial interests. The amendment is to be voted at the coming election.

Members of the California Foundrymen's Association are holding the annual convention at the Hotel Oakland today. Foundry owners and executives from all parts of the state are present at the session, which will take up legislation and other business. Sessions will be held at the principal offices of the company in San Francisco.

R. E. Wells, for a considerable period connected with the realty firm of Malde-Rittigstein & Co., has removed to 323 Pine street, San Francisco, the headquarters of W. G. Grace & Co., and is now engaged in the construction of Franklin and when completed will contain some 10,000 feet of space. Plott & Sons are badly crowded in their present building and are planning to move along Second street.

C. H. King Estate Co., erecting the factory building for J. Plott & Sons Company, announced immediate construction work will begin. The building will contain 15,000 square feet, and when completed will contain 10,000 feet of space. Plott & Sons are engaged in the production of concrete blocks and are planning to feature the meeting.

The Red Line Express Company of 1331 Folsom street donated the use of their building to the American Legion. The building will be used as a temporary home for the Legionnaires while their permanent quarters are being built. The Red Line Express Company has built up a splendid business carrying out going into the country from among the employees of the company.

The Merchant Calculating Machine Company has just installed a high priced machine with a capacity for working with figures up to 10 digits. The machine is designed to calculate percentages, etc. Thirty days' free trial. Let our representative call for further information.

The Buswell Manufacturing Company of Eleventh street and Eleventh avenue is engaged in the manufacture of structural paint or steel, structural iron and bridges. The base of this paint is oxide of iron and manganese. A California mineral from the mines of Franklin and when completed will contain some 10,000 feet of space. Plott & Sons are largely crowded in their present building and are planning to move along Second street.

Jules Morgan is supervising the architectural work on an addition of the gymnasium at Mills College, including a swimming pool. The work is to be completed in time for the opening of the school year. A third contract is to be let for the addition of a new gymnasium.

The Tribune Annual for 1917, the authoritative yearly publication of Alameda county and the east bay cities, will be bigger, brighter and more interesting than ever. Special advertising and editorial staff are now busy compiling and arranging data for the Tribune's latest and most popular section of the publication this year will be devoted exclusively to the manufacturing and industrial activities of the city. Many new and unique features are now being added to the Tribune's pages. The Tribune's staff photographers will be on hand to cover every phase of the city's present day industrial accomplishment.
